

Figure 7.14. The left plot continues to show the Lipschitz lower bounds constructed for the RECT intervals using the Lipschitz constant $\ell = 200$, but now highlights the interval containing the lowest value. The right plot shows how the lowest lower bound for a given Lipschitz constant is the one with the lowest x -intercept in the right-hand plot.